

BRIE HENSOLD
PLANNING PRINCIPAL

Brie Hensold is an urban planner, co-founder and principal of Agency Landscape + Planning. With a passion for understanding and improving communities and places, Brie brings a systems-based approach that celebrates diverse perspectives. She has extensive experience developing creative and meaningful community engagement processes. Brie's work encompasses multiple scales, from downtown plans to citywide park systems to resilience strategies. She is a Design Critic in the Department of Urban Planning and Design at the Harvard Graduate School of Design where she also leads an executive education class in resilient cities.

EDUCATION

Harvard University Graduate School of Design
Master of Urban Planning, Urban Design Concentration

Rice University
Bachelor of Arts, Architectural Studies and Art History

ACADEMIC POSITIONS

Harvard University Graduate School of Design Executive Education Course
Leader: The Resilient City, New Discoveries at the Intersection of Planning and Design, 2017 - ongoing

Harvard University Graduate School of Design Critic in Urban Planning and Design; Core Planning Studio, 2019 - ongoing

PROJECT EXPERIENCE

Allegheny Riverfront Green Boulevard Study; Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania †

Cedar Rapids Neighborhood Planning Process; Cedar Rapids, Iowa †

Central Indiana White River Vision Plan; Multiple Jurisdictions, Indiana

Detroit Land-Based Projects Plan; Detroit, Michigan

Downtown Bozeman Plan; Bozeman, Montana

Downtown Rochester Master Plan; Rochester, Minnesota †

East Baltimore Implementation Plan; Baltimore, Maryland †

Fort Wayne Riverfront Neighborhood Plan and Design Guidelines; Fort Wayne, Indiana

Greensboro Parks and Recreation Comprehensive Master Plan; Greensboro, North Carolina

Mecklenburg County Park and Recreation Master Plan; Charlotte, North Carolina

Raleigh Downtown Plan; Raleigh, North Carolina †

Zidell Yards Master Plan, Greenway and Open Space Concept Plan; Portland, Oregon †

† Work Completed as a Design Principal at Sasaki